ters show Marcy as opposed to Soulé's success from his personal hatred to the man; that he did not openly express his opposition to the object of Soulé's mission, but that every available opportunity was taken held of to render it unpopular—as, for instance, Marcy's State papers were not made to give the views of the Cabinet or the President, says Mr. C., and that this change by Marcy has produced much of the trouble. On Mr. Cualing deny this evidence or his friendship and diplomacy? Can he deny that four or five months since it partly determined Mr. Soulé to resign his trusts. since it partly determined Mr. Soulé to resign his trusts, and to beard Marcy on his own ground? What changed these intentions? Will Mr. Cushing not say that a subsequent letter from him placed a veto for the moment upon Soulé's movement? These friendly disposed missives originated the difficulty between Marcy and Buchanan. Mason, at Ostend, was made to believe in their truth; and when the proceedings of this convention are made known—if faithfully published—it will be found that a motion was made and pressed for the three Ministers to resign in a body if Marcy should be retained in the Cabinst.

ters to resign in a body if Marcy should be retained in the Cabinet.

Perhaps Mr. Bayly, the Chairman of our Foreign Affeirs in the House, was not made sensible of these occurrences when he opposed the papers of the Ostend convention to be placed before the House, for he gave his word that he knew nothing of the particulars of that convention; and there is no man who can other than enjoy a high regard for the word of the Hon. Chairman. Yet the facts exist, as here stated, although I make no attempt to the preciseness of the language used on said occasions. Mr. Marcy can make use of these weapons when his inclinations will admit, as he is in possession of all that is interesting in the premises.

A few days will bring you a message, uncalled for by Congress, relative to Cuba, from the President, in which the tone of it will be found not quite as peaceful or harmonious as his late annual paper. It will be of Marcy's

MADRID—SUPREME COURT PROCEEDINGS.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28, 1854.

The administration is anxious for the annexation of the Sandwich Islands, but the sentiment of Congress is not favorable to immediate action. Our legislators want to know first what is to be done in reference to Cubs, and seem indisposed to take up the subject until the plan of the administration as to the latter is de-veloped. It is said that the Committee on Foreign Rela-tions will report in favor of making the government of the Hague reconsider and modify their action in the Gibson case, even if coercive measures become necessary for the nursoes.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT TO THE DAUGHTER OF R. H. DANA—On Monday, at noon, as Miss Charlotte Bans, daughter of Richard H. Dana, Esq., who resides at No. 43 Chestnut street, was crossing the Common in the direction of Weststreet, from Beacon street, she was run down by a sled. and while prostrate a second sled came upon her. The ranner struck her on the obin, and it is believed that the unfortunate lady has sustained fatal injury. She was conveyed to her father's house, and was insensible for four hours. Yesterday morning she seemed to revive a little, but towards evening she grew worse, and it was feared she could not survive the night.—Boston Traveller, Dec. 21.

THE POISONING CASE IN ALBANY.—The case which we referred to on Thursday, was that of Mrs. Rice, wife of George E. Rice, who died after an illness of nearly a week. The history of the case is briefly as follows:—Mrs. Rice, after a visit a week ago Tuesday, to some friends in Greenbush, we think, returned home in the afternoon, and seeing a bowl of water standing in the room, took a drink from it. She also took her tea as small, but in the evening was taken sick suddenly, with violent vomiting and purging. Dr. Boyd was called a few hours after and attended her until Monday evening, when she died. In November last a man named William Gill, who is a brother-in-law of Mrs. Rice, (having married her sister against the wishes of the family, and expecially of Mrs. R.; commenced writing anonymous letters to a sister of Mrs. Rice, warning her that Mrs. R. contemplated self-destrection. No attention was paid to these letters until after Mrs. Rice was taken sick, when Gill wrote over his own signature that he knew Mrs. Rice had taken poison and was then sick from it. Mr. Rice then asked his wife what she had caten and drank. She replied "nothing except what the family had—unless it was when she came home she drank some water from a white bowl." Dr. Boyd also put a similar question to her, and she appeared amazed. She made the same reply. It is in evidence that while Gill was writing these anonymous letters he was a frequent visitor at the residence of Mrs. Rice, and in the letters he saked interviews, which he did not ask for when present artong the family. He was in the house also the afterneon when Mrs. Rice came home and drank from the bowl. These and other circumstances have drawn suepicion down upon Gill, so strong that he has been arrested. The only evidence that Mrs. Rice had died from poison was given by Mr. Gill through his letters, and while on the stand before the coroner's jury, until this morning, when the testimony of Drs. Boyd and Swinburne was taken. The former gave it as his opinion that the symptoms of her sickness and death were those of a case of poisoning. Allow Allow Dec. 23

Loss or Hogs on Grand Island.—The late snow storm seems to have been more injurious in its results on Grand Island than upon either shore, and a greater depth of snow fell than on the main land. A resident upon the island thinks it reached three feet upon a level. The hogs which were suffered to roam at will about the island, having been caught in the snow, were generally destroyed. Several hundreds probably met their death in this way. The poor creatures, when found, were huddled close together, as if they died inviting warmth from each other. In one place twenty were thus found in a body, all frozen stiff. The loss will fall severely upon the farmers.—Buffalo Democracy.
